Speakers at the Press Conference yesterday in the Capitol protesting redistricting:

Joshua Kanter: Founder of An Alliance for a Better Utah.

Registered Democrat, Donated $20,000+ in 2008 & 2010 election cycle. Obama, Clinton, DSCC, DNC, John Kerry, DCCC

John Hansen: Registered Democrat, SLC

Mayor Peter Corroon: (D) Salt Lake County Mayor. Called redistricting process un-American. Ran for Governor in 2010, major recipient of donations from Bruce Bastian, Howard Dean, AFL-CIO, Labor Unions, supporter of non-partisan "Fair Boundaries" initiative whose maps where drawn by Democrat operative, adviser and former UT Dem Party Exec-Director Todd Taylor.

David Irvine: Donor to Democratic Presidential candidate Wesley Clark, President Barack Obama, DNC. Attorney who has sued Utah and has received millions of dollars from Utah taxpayers in law suits.

Sen. Ross Romero: Senate Minority Leader, Candidate for SLCO Mayor, Democrat

Glenn Wright: "non-partisan Fair Boundaries" Director. Former Summit County Democrat Party Chair, caught using partisan map drawn by UT Democrat Adviser and former Executive Director

Speaker Up & Peace Up Activists; Tim DeChristopher's friends, sat on UTA TRAX to protest coal power.

MaryAnne Martindale: Exec Director of Alliance for a Better Utah, Democrat AG campaign manager, democrat operative, registered democrat. Won't release her salary or fundraising information for Alliance for a Better Utah.

No "legitimate" republicans, tea partiers, independents or non-partisan people spoke at the "non-partisan" rally.

As an observer, I find it offensive that groups would be so blatant in their partisan bias while trying to maintain the "non-partisan" citizens title.

Regards,

Aaron Rennaker

Reality is Not Negotiable

HOW UTAH IS LEADING THE NATION IN FISCAL REFORM

We've all heard it - out of control spending, trillions of dollars in debt, burdening our great-grandchildren with entitlement programs we can't afford. The federal government is now borrowing 41 cents on every dollar and of the $2.2 trillion in annual revenue, $2.1 trillion is spent on just 3 things: Medicaid, Medicare and Social Security.

Senator Dan Liljenquist was the architect behind Utah's pension and Medicaid reforms, both of which are now model pieces of legislation for the nation. If you've ever wondered how Utah stacks up, you won't want to miss Senator Dan Liljenquist, speaking on "Fiscal Reality." (And here's an FYI: before these reforms, even with a balanced budget, Utah was headed off the fiscal cliff.)

Redistricting

WHY WE REDISTRICT

The process has its root in the Constitutional Convention of 1787. Since greater populations result in more representation in Congress, this is a highly anticipated event in political circles. Utah narrowly missed out on gaining a 4th seat during the 2000 census (resulting in a U.S. Supreme Court case involving how LDS missionaries or other residents residing out of country like the military are counted during the census). The results of the 2010 census revealed that Utah's population had grown enough to warrant a 4th Congressional seat.

HOW THE PROCESS WORKS

Once a 4th seat was allocated to Utah, the legislature created a redistricting committee made up of State Representatives, State Senators, Republicans and Democrats. The committee traveled the State visiting 17 different cities gathering public input and listening to the peoples' concerns regarding the boundaries to be created by the process. The public was very engaged and most meetings were well attended with many people wanting to offer comments.

DRAWING MAPS

While the Congressional maps usually draw the most attention from the public, the redistricting committee is responsible for 4 different map categories: State House, State Senate, State School Board, and Congressional. The shifts and changes in population will eventually trickle all the way down to City Council boundaries as all political entities adjust to ensure that every district has equal populations.

In contrast to past cycles, at the local meetings anyone who had drawn a map had the chance to present to the committee. The base map for State School Board was one drawn by Rob Horner, an interested citizen from Logan. Public ideas and input from citizen maps were used to flesh out the details of the other redistricting maps.

STATE HOUSE

The State House of Representatives has 75 seats that needed to be adjusted to follow the population shifts. Certain areas of the State have grown faster than others, like St. George, southwest Salt Lake County and northwest Davis County. Our district shifted somewhat, gaining voters in Syracuse and losing voters in central Layton and south Kaysville to other districts. This map passed with a vote of 71-1 in the House and 26-1 in the Senate. I hate to see the residents I've had the opportunity to represent go to other districts, but they will be in good hands with my colleagues.

CONGRESSIONAL MAPS - WHY I VOTED 'NO'...

Due to the gain of a 4th Congressional seat and a decade of steady population growth, a major redraw was necessary. This process is not nearly as easy as it might seem. There are many important principles like equal population, respecting community boundaries and community of interest, and clear and contiguous boundaries. I felt the last minute change to pull part of Kaysville into the 2nd District was not something I could support.

This map passed with a vote of 50-19 in the House and 20-5 in the Senate.

HOW UTAH IS LEADING THE NATION IN FISCAL REFORM

We've all heard it - out of control spending, trillions of dollars in debt, burdening our great-grandchildren with entitlement programs we can't afford. The federal government is now borrowing 41 cents on every dollar and of the $2.2 trillion in annual revenue, $2.1 trillion is spent on just 3 things: Medicaid, Medicare and Social Security.

Senator Dan Liljenquist was the architect behind Utah's pension and Medicaid reforms, both of which are now model pieces of legislation for the nation. If you've ever wondered how Utah stacks up, you won't want to miss Senator Dan Liljenquist, speaking on "Fiscal Reality." (And here's an FYI: before these reforms, even with a balanced budget, Utah was headed off the fiscal cliff.)

Redistricting

WHY WE REDISTRICT

The process has its root in the Constitutional Convention of 1787. Since greater populations result in more representation in Congress, this is a highly anticipated event in political circles. Utah narrowly missed out on gaining a 4th seat during the 2000 census (resulting in a U.S. Supreme Court case involving how LDS missionaries or other residents residing out of country like the military are counted during the census). The results of the 2010 census revealed that Utah's population had grown enough to warrant a 4th Congressional seat.

HOW THE PROCESS WORKS

Once a 4th seat was allocated to Utah, the legislature created a redistricting committee made up of State Representatives, State Senators, Republicans and Democrats. The committee traveled the State visiting 17 different cities gathering public input and listening to the peoples' concerns regarding the boundaries to be created by the process. The public was very engaged and most meetings were well attended with many people wanting to offer comments.

DRAWING MAPS

While the Congressional maps usually draw the most attention from the public, the redistricting committee is responsible for 4 different map categories: State House, State Senate, State School Board, and Congressional. The shifts and changes in population will eventually trickle all the way down to City Council boundaries as all political entities adjust to ensure that every district has equal populations.

In contrast to past cycles, at the local meetings anyone who had drawn a map had the chance to present to the committee. The base map for State School Board was one drawn by Rob Horner, an interested citizen from Logan. Public ideas and input from citizen maps were used to flesh out the details of the other redistricting maps.

STATE HOUSE

The State House of Representatives has 75 seats that needed to be adjusted to follow the population shifts. Certain areas of the State have grown faster than others, like St. George, southwest Salt Lake County and northwest Davis County. Our district shifted somewhat, gaining voters in Syracuse and losing voters in central Layton and south Kaysville to other districts. This map passed with a vote of 71-1 in the House and 26-1 in the Senate. I hate to see the residents I've had the opportunity to represent go to other districts, but they will be in good hands with my colleagues.

CONGRESSIONAL MAPS - WHY I VOTED 'NO'...

Due to the gain of a 4th Congressional seat and a decade of steady population growth, a major redraw was necessary. This process is not nearly as easy as it might seem. There are many important principles like equal population, respecting community boundaries and community of interest, and clear and contiguous boundaries. Complicating the process is the way the majority of our population has grouped together along the Wasatch Front. This means there would be multiple lines drawn through the major population centers, which would divide cities, counties, and neighboring communities. We knew going into the process that it would be hard to draw lines through the urban core without upsetting some. Rural Utah has many less dividing lines because the populations is significantly lower and so those lines are much less controversial.

The final map took several (long) days to debate and compromise between the full House and Senate. The final map pulls a significant chunk of southern Davis County into the 2nd District. Previously those some citizens had been in the 1st District. All of the district I represent in the State House will remain in District 1, but you will want to check your address against the final map because the line between Districts 1 and 2 is between Farmington (2nd District) and Kaysville (1st District). A small group of homes in the Hess Farms area of Kaysville was pulled out of District 1 into District 2. On this vote, I went against the party and voted 'no'. I felt the last minute change to pull part of Kaysville into the 2nd District was not something I could support.

This map passed with a vote of 50-19 in the House and 20-5 in the Senate.

I felt the last minute change to pull part of Kaysville into the 2nd District was not something I could support.

This map passed with a vote of 50-19 in the House and 20-5 in the Senate.

Town Hall & Redistricting

Reality is Not Negotiable

HOW UTAH IS LEADING THE NATION IN FISCAL REFORM

We've all heard it - out of control spending, trillions of dollars in debt, burdening our great-grandchildren with entitlement programs we can't afford. The federal government is now borrowing 41 cents on every dollar, and of the $2.2 trillion in annual revenue, $2.1 trillion is spent on just 3 things: Medicaid, Medicare and Social Security.

Senator Dan Lijerquist was the architect behind Utah's pension and Medicaid reforms, both of which are now model pieces of legislation for the nation. If you've ever wondered how Utah stacks up, you won't want to miss Senator Dan Lijerquist, speaking on "Fiscal Reality." (And here's an FYI: before these reforms, even with a balanced budget, Utah was headed off the fiscal cliff.) Join us Wednesday, 26 October from 7:00 PM to 8:30 PM at

WHY WE REDISTRICT

The process has its root in the Constitutional Convention of 1787. Since greater populations result in more representation in Congress, this is a highly anticipated event in political circles. Utah narrowly missed out on gaining a 4th seat during the 2000 census (resulting in a U.S. Supreme Court case involving how LDS missionaries or other residents residing out of county like the military are counted during the census). The results of the 2010 census revealed that Utah's population had grown enough to warrant a 4th Congressional seat.

HOW THE PROCESS WORKS

Once a 4th seat was allocated to Utah, the legislature created a redistricting committee made up of State Representatives, State Senators, Republicans and Democrats. The committee traveled the State visiting 17 different cities gathering public input and listening to the peoples' concerns regarding the boundaries to be created by the process. The public was very engaged and most meetings were well attended with many people wanting to offer comments.

DRAWING MAPS

While the Congressional maps usually draw the most attention from the public, the redistricting committee is responsible for 4 different map categories: State House, State Senate, State School Board, and Congressional. The shifts and changes in population will eventually trickle all the way down to City Council boundaries as all political entities adjust to ensure that every district has equal populations.

In contrast to past cycles, at the local meetings anyone who had drawn a map had the chance to present to the committee. The base map for State School Board was one drawn by Rob Horner, an interested citizen from Logan. Public ideas and input from citizen maps were used to flesh out the details of the other redistricting maps.

STATE HOUSE

The State House of Representatives has 75 seats that needed to be adjusted to follow the population shifts. Certain areas of the State have grown faster than others, like St. George, southwest Salt Lake County and northwest Davis County. Our district shifted somewhat, gaining voters in Syracuse and losing voters in central Layton and south Kaysville to other districts. This map passed with a vote of 71-1 in the House and 26-1 in the Senate. I hate to see the residents I've had the opportunity to represent go to other districts, but they will be in good hands with my colleagues.

CONGRESSIONAL MAPS - WHY I VOTED 'NO'...

Due to the gain of a 4th Congressional seat and a decade of steady population growth, a major redraw was necessary. This process is not nearly as easy as it might seem. There are many important principles like equal population, respecting community boundaries and community of interest, and clear and contiguous boundaries. Complicating the process is the way the majority of our population has grouped together along the Wasatch Front. This means there would be multiple lines drawn through the major population centers, which would divide cities, counties, and neighboring communities. We knew going into the process that it would be hard to draw lines through the urban core without upsetting some. Rural Utah has many less dividing lines because the populations is significantly lower and so those lines are much less controversial.

The final map took several (long) days to debate and compromise between the full House and Senate. The final map pulls a significant chunk of southern Davis County into the 2nd District. Previously those some citizens had been in the 1st District. All of the district I represent in the State House will remain in District 1, but you will want to check your address against the final map because the line between Districts 1 and 2 is between Farmington (2nd District) and Kaysville (1st District). A small group of homes in the Hess Farms area of Kaysville was pulled out of District 1 into District 2. On this vote, I went against the party and voted 'no'. I left the last minute change to pull part of Kaysville into the 2nd District was not something I could support.
