Subject: Redistricting Huddle

Let's meet at 2:00 today in the conference room downstairs to make sure we're on the same page going into the weekend and Monday. See you then.

As I was walking through the parking garage on my way to work this morning, I saw Rep. Ivory ahead of me getting out of his car. He seemed to linger a moment and appeared to be waiting for me to get closer. As I approached, he said something like, "I'll bet you guys will be glad to have this special session and redistricting over with." He then commented on how hard our staff has been working and expressed appreciation for our enormous efforts on redistricting. I realize that his comments were not directed to me personally (I have not had any part in all the extraordinary efforts being exerted by so many in the redistricting arena -- heck, I had to look up the term "hard work" in the dictionary), so I pass them along to those who are the appropriate recipients of the well-deserved praise. To which I add my own.

Subject: ASLCS Conference

While at the ASLCS conference, I attended a "Redistricting and the Legislative Process" meeting.

Towards the end of the meeting, Tim Storey, NCSL, told the group "If any of you have questions regarding Redistricting, check out Utah's website. Utah has it set up for the public to go onto the Legislature site and draw their own maps. Speak with the Utah people, they have done an excellent job with it and it is a great example for others".

It was great having NCSL speak so positive about our Redistricting processes. Way to go!
