Too many cities, towns and geographic communities of interest divided, going against what good government groups say should be important- compactness and keeping communities of interest together. No other state or good govt group gives urban/rural mix as reason for fair redistricting- only our odd legislators. Legislators and committee should examine best practices (including independent redistricting commission) for redistricting; if they did so, they'd quickly abandon the rural/urban mix they currently espouse.
