Why does this take one neighborhood in NSL and put it in a different district than the rest of the subdivision? My neighborhood elementary school would have kids in 3 of the districts. This plan needs some work in the south Davis area!

David Edward Garber <DaveGarber1975@yahoo.com> wrote, in response to VIGGOE (unregistered):

Thanks, VIGGOE! I'd love to reduce my short list of divided counties and/or cities from three to zero, but due to other considerations, three is about as good as I can do. And I think that SLC can handle it.

Salt Lake County is almost big enough for two districts and, as such, needs to be divided somehow. I experimented with some other ways of halving Salt Lake County, such as north-south or diagonally or something more meandering, all of which would leave SLC intact but likely split some other city, but I didn't feel as good about any of these alternatives as I did about this north-south division that splits SLC. I'm still open to alternatives, although I don't know whether the redistricting committee is or not.

By the way, I note that every semifinal proposal other than both mine and Steve Clark's divides Salt Lake County among four districts rather than among only two. These four other proposals divide Utah County less, though, unlike both mine and Steve Clark's, which divide Utah County among three districts.

I agree, VIGGOE, and I did this in my own proposal, as I followed city limits near I-15. Although I could be wrong, I get the impression that Senator Okerlund gave little care to the precise course of his proposal's boundaries, as long as they all met in central Salt Lake County somewhere. Such division seems rather needless and arbitrary to me. I'm not sure what additional goals (other than satisfying the official requirements) guided Senator Okerlund in his development of this proposal, if any goals did at all, nor how he prioritized these goals, but I don't understand his proposal's logic at all.

Once again they are dividing up the west side of Salt Lake County. West Valley and Taylorsville are divided between three districts and several others are divided between 2. #### Plan Information

Plan name: Hat and 3 Stripes - Modified
Description: The goal is to take my Hat and 3 Stripes with 2 counties and 3 cities divided and change it to be 2 cities and 3 counties divided using the largest 3 counties.

South Jordan is being exchanged with Saratoga Springs and Eagle Mountain. Herriman now has less than 1500 people in the 3rd district. I don't have that number to zero yet.

Districts 1 and 2 were not changed.

Hi,

Yeah that would be great if you can edit them for me. I thought I would be able to edit comments after I had posted them, but it wouldn't let me. I posted roughly the same comment on two different maps, Fred Cox's and David Garber's. If you could edit both comments and replace them with the following:

This map might look pretty, but we must ask ourselves: what is the difference between a GOOD map and a BAD map? A good map is where all four districts are roughly as even as possible. A good map has both urban and rural elements, splits up as few Counties as possible and uses County lines, major highways and waterway as district boundaries. A bad map is where one or more districts looks handcarved for any specific person, creates a "doughnut hole" in SLC or splits up too many Counties, cities or towns.

This one is virtually the same as the current plan Utah has. All of the people in eastern Utah would have no voice and their seat would have a SL Democrat--oh wait, that's exactly what the current District 2 is. Keep the SL Democrat vote in SL County. VOTE NO FOR THIS ONE!

Hmmm. I wasn't especially fond of Sumison's original proposal, but I do think that this variant clearly improves its division of Salt Lake City & vicinity. Kudos!

I hear that, since this meeting, Fair Boundaries has calculated "metrics" (length of borders, cities split, et cetera) for each of these six official semifinal U.S. Congressional maps. I'd like to see them post their metrics on this website for us to examine.

Thank you for submitting a proposed redistricting plan through Utah's online redistricting tool. Please note that all plans submitted will be made available for review by the Redistricting Committee and the general public on both the online tool and redistrictutah.com. Shortly after plans are submitted, they are posted on redistrictutah.com for public comment.

As time allows, the public can further discuss submitted plans during the public comment portion of future Redistricting Committee meetings. A full list of public meetings can be found at redistrictutah.com.

If you have any questions regarding submitted plans or technical issues with the online tool, email us at redistrictutah@utah.gov.

I am still wondering how this plan is fair to the people of St. George, Cedar City, Monticello, or Salt Lake. These areas have wildly different needs and some portion of the population will inherently be ignored. How could a congressman simultaneously represent the needs of a rural and urban population at the same time?

Howdy! I'd hoped that, if my U.S. Congressional proposal's logic didn't speak for itself, then my fellow citizens would---and it seems that quite a few did on your official website, if not by other means. In fact, it seems to me that my proposal got more "likes" and positive feedback on this website during this last week than any of its competitors. So, I feel sad that your committee dismissed it so readily this morning. I firmly invite you to reconsider your decision. In any case, thank you!

IT looks like my fellow Republicans have let me down by losing their integrity and splitting the Salt Lake area with spurious reasoning. No one believes that rot about each congressman needing to represent urban and rural. We want representatives that represent us, not the guy across the state, and we want fairness to the other party, as well. It is clear to all the world that this is a cheap shot. Have the sense to recognize this.

I think that this plan makes some rather strange electoral bedfellows, myself. I don't understand its logic. Perhaps it's not too late to persuade this committee of the error of their ways, and to choose a different base plan.
